THE HOME CIRCLE

Pleasant Reveries—A Circle Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Hours.

The hand that rocked the cradle there is no such hand, it is bad to rock the baby the have us understand; So the cradle's but a relic of our foolish days, When mothers reared their children unscientific ways, When they bonneted them and bonneted them, those poor old long ago— The Washingtons and Jeffers Adamses, you know.

They warn us that the baby was a muddled brain, If we dangle him or rock him, we carefully refrain, He must lie in one position, swayed and never swung, Or his chance to grow to greatness be blasted while he's young, Ah, to think how they were reared their mothers long ago— The Franklins and the Putnam Hamiltons, you know.

Then we must feed the baby a schedule that is made, And the food that he is given measured out or weighed, He may bellow to inform us that isn't satisfied, But he couldn't grow to greatness his wants were all supplied, Think how foolish nursing at those poor weeklings long ago— The Shakespeares and the Luthers the Bonapartes, you know. Contributed by Jennie M. Rich, delphin, Pa., April 12, 1913.

BEST THAT COUNTS.

It is a Great Economy of Physical and Mental Strength.

To a careful housekeeper and maker nearly all economies appear except one, and that is economy in use of her own physical, mental and emotional powers, her attention, nervous force. Yet in many cases, this is the most essential of all. Few naturally energetic and conscientious women learn lesson until taught it forcibly, by real experience. The knowledge thus come too late to benefit the as it might if it had been earlier acquired, but it is never too late to help.

Many practical ways to economize the expenditure of health and strength may be discovered if one sets mind to search for them. I will scribble one little custom which proved of great benefit to me. I am a busy woman, and far from strong. There are many such who would the forming of a similar habit gain to their advantage, says a writer in Country Gentleman.

We all find, I think, that the duties of the day hurry us more and more, and leave a certain weariness, sometimes depression. At nine o'clock I drop everything I go to a quiet room and lie down for half an hour. I relax my body. I do read and I resolutely put out of mind all thought of the work waiting for me, of engagements, possible vicissitudes—everything that can interfere with the absolute rest of body and mind that I am trying to secure.

It is not possible to keep the mind blank, and the banished thoughts return if their place is not filled with others. So, after dismissing my cares I turn my mind to something pleasant and uplifting, but unexciting; a favorite poem, a collection of passages of Scripture—something very brief. When the mind is thus—as it will, especially at first—I bring it back resolutely, but without forcing it.

A different hour of the day may suit some women better, but it should not be put off too long, and it should always be the same hour if possible when not as near as may be. Regularity is essential. If the daily regimen is observed regularly, religiously, not merely now and then as a good opportunity offers, the benefit scarcely be measured, and will soon be perceptible.

The women who need it most will see the greatest number of "How to do the way," but they must not say that I cannot be done. It can. At first a little forethought and planning may be necessary; but it is worthy of thought. If there is no one to answer telephone and doorbell, make them do so where you cannot hear them. Put an interruption and look your door. The wheels of your little world will not drop out of it for half an hour daily. You will gain not only rest, but renewed power. The practical work accomplished during the month will not be less than during the month with infinitely less friction and fatigue.

Mothers Only Know!

By Dr. True

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms.

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomach and pin worms. Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abdominal cramping for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull, leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body may be hot and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. True's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worms in the bowels, expels them from the body and makes the child healthy again. All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

SOME TRUTHS ABOUT SLEEP.

There is a growing belief that usually a person sleeps as long as he needs sleep—some more, some less. We are coming to the belief that soporific drugs (sleep producers) have little place in medicine. The horrors of sleeplessness are but slightly due to the want of sleep, and chiefly to the idea that to be awake is a terribly nerve-destroying thing. The victim of insomnia laments his infirmity, and worries lest he becomes a nervous wreck. This attitude of mind when he goes to bed tends to keep him awake, for he is in a state of expectancy of insomnia; and, what is worse, he is unhappy about it. If he should resolve that he does not wish to sleep, but would read, he would soon drop into normal unconsciousness. . . . Man should go to bed to give his body rest and relaxation; and the brain will put itself to sleep if it needs it. While the body is in relaxation, it is not necessary that the brain should be unconscious in sleep. If the body is given eight hours of rest, the brain may be left to take care of itself. If the insomnia is impressed with this fact he will find that lying awake for an hour or two while his body is at rest does not harm him. He will find that, his terror gone, he ceases to be an insomniac, and becomes a philosopher. It is a common error for a man to put off his bedtime till late because he finds that he cannot sleep till then, or to get up early in the morning for the very poor reason that he is awake. New York State Journal of Medicine.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

When copper kettles become dull and black-looking, try cleaning them in the following way: Cut a lemon in half, dip it in salt, and rub it all over the surface of the kettle. Afterwards wash well in warm water to prevent the acid eating into the metal and polish with dry powdered bath brick.

After washing glass, rinse it in hot water, and then plunge it into cold water in which a generous handful of starch has been dissolved. Drain the glassware on towels until perfectly dry. Then rub with a soft cloth, and it is done to perfection. Cut glass should be polished still further with a fine soft brush, which will get into all the cuttings.

Before putting away spare silver, clean it thoroughly, wrap it up in dark blue paper with a few camphor balls in the parcel and when the silver is unwrapped, even months afterwards, it will be found to be as bright as when placed away. Filigree ornaments should always be kept in dark blue soft paper.

Lamp Wicks—To secure a good light, wicks must be changed often as they soon become clogged, and do not permit the free passage of the oil. Soaking wicks in vinegar 24 hours before placing in lamp secures a clear flame.

To Remove Stains from Mattresses—Make thick paste by wetting starch with cold water. Spread this on the stain, first putting the mattress in the sun, rub the off after an hour or so, and if the staining is not clean try the process again.

Smother papers in trunks or drawers will prevent mice from doing them any harm.

Moths in Carpets—Persons troubled with carpet moths may get rid of them by scrubbing the floor with strong salt and water before laying the carpet and sprinkling the carpet with salt once a week before the sweeping. Boston Globe.

Made My Life Worth Living

"I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me," writes Mrs. L. Dunbar, of Oak Grove, Mich. "I have suffered with pain in my back and under my shoulder blade for a number of years, also with a poor appetite, indigestion and constipation. I tried all of the remedies that I heard of, and a number of doctors, but got no relief. Finally a friend told me to try Chamberlain's Tablets. I got a bottle of them and they soon helped my stomach, by their gentle action my bowels became more regular. Today I feel like a new man, and I am able to do all the work I wish to do."

Chamberlain's Tablets are sold by all druggists and by mail.

They have cured me and made my life worth living.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

It is announced that Bertram L. Smith of Patten, representative, will be a candidate for Congress in the fourth district next election. Congressman Quernan, who now represents that district, it is understood will not be a candidate for reelection. It is understood that Col. Frederick K. Parkhurst of Bangor is also a candidate.

Marion Watson of Hildesford, the oldest printer in Maine, has been engaged in printing type for 63 years. He has probably established more newspapers than any man in New England. He began his career at the age of 14, in the office of the Union, a weekly publication in Saco.

A Medford, Mass., judge has hit up on a novel, but effective punishment for boys indulging in malicious mischief. Seven boys who were arraigned in the Malden court for maliciously breaking twenty-eight panes of glass in the building of the West Medford Real Estate Company, will be compelled to throw stones in a vacant field under the eyes of a probation officer until their arms are so lame they can't throw another stone. If the offense is repeated, Judge Hiram after making this ruling asked that they would be compelled to make restitution to the amount of $1.00.

Oxycephala halimata is the name of a fish that has just been put on exhibition in New York, known as "the queerest fish in the world." This fish, which is also familiarly known as the bat fish, is a native of the Florida keys region. He is provided with a set of attachments which he can use either as fins to swim with, legs to walk with, or wings to fly with. He is almost equally at home in the water, on land, or in the air. But he dies in northern waters unless it is kept up to 80 degrees.

John J. Nugent of Carleton, who is visiting in Augusta for a week or two, is said to be the tallest man in Maine, and as he walks about the streets he attracts much attention, he has almost grazing some of the signs, and he is obliged to stoop to go through some of the doors. He is 6 feet 9 3/4 inches tall and comes from a remarkable family of athletic brothers. He has seven of them, all more than six feet.

The post of Permanent Secretary of French Academy, to which M. Etienne Lamy has just been elected is by no means a sinecure. It is the duty of the secretary to organize and supervise the work of various committees, which every year distribute between $20,000 and $25,000 in literary prizes; to allot something over $20,000 a year as rewards for meritorious authors; to select and offer suitable assistance to authors whose work may be deserving of encouragement; and to devise means of helping numerous hidden talents, whose work is so good that it is almost impossible to find it. One of the Permanent Secretary's hardest tasks is to read the very considerable number of books which are submitted every year in the various literary competitions favored by the Academy.

land, chairman, Philip J. Deering of Portland for one year and William M. Ayer of Oakland for two years. They hope to make such plans this year as will lead to big road building operations on sections of the main trunk line next year. Wiesbaden, Germany, April 18.—The discovery of a method of prolonged immunization against diphtheria, consisting of an injection of a mixture of diphtheria toxin and anti-toxin, was announced today by Professor Emilio von Behring of the University of Marburg, at the congress of internal medicine now in session here. Adequate tests of the new method in the clinics of Magdeburg and Marburg had, said the professor, shown that the treatment was harmless and effective. The earlier attempts to immunize by means of Behring's original diphtheria serum were unsuccessful, as the immunity was very brief. Professor Behring offers to supply clinics with the new prophylactic under proper guarantees of observation and registration.

"I commit my soul into the hands of my Savior, in full confidence that, having redeemed it, and washed it in his most precious blood, he will present it faultlessly before the throne of my Heavenly Father; and I entrust my children to maintain and defend, at all hazards, and at any cost of personal sacrifice, the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin through the blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, and through that alone." This is the extraordinary and striking utterance which begins the last will and testament of John Pierpont Morgan, who died at Rome on March 31 last, whose body, draped over with flowers from a fortnight later, brought back to his own land, and last Monday was borne to his last resting place at Hildesford. Ever since the funeral the publication of the great financier's last will has been awaited with keen expectation, and it is safe to say that all the interesting testaments of eminent citizens of America, that of Mr. Morgan, to be offered for probate at New York Monday morning, is by far the most interesting. As to the amount of the estate which is one of the first questions the public eagerly is asking, there is nothing in the will to give any accurate idea, and the executors declare that no announcement will be made on this point until the appraisal has been made for determining the state inheritance tax.

It is said that a wealthy resident of New York may presently give the city $200,000 worth of land suitable for children's playgrounds. It would be a noble blessing. There are in New York about a million children between five and 14 years of age. Private generosity provides playgrounds for some of these public foresight arranges that a few fortunate ones in the water world can do fairly well in the field of sport. But it is doubtful if a great many of the whole number have a chance to play. Yet play is essential to a low of mental and physical growth, and the street, with its various dangers, is a bad place for it. Perhaps if Mr. Carnegie had given $200,000 in New York instead of in Pittsburgh he would have benefited his city more than upon the grounds for a new arena the city would ever have had to provide itself with a more complete library system, and it shows no haste in acting for the other, wider, simpler need of youth. To make two-thirds of a million children grateful to his name now and an increasing host hereafter, to aid in the development, heighten the happiness and guard the safety of an army so vast—what a chance for a millionaire with an imagination.

Through the generosity of various friends of Good Will Farm all of the buildings at the Homes have been wired for electric lights, at a cost of several thousand dollars. Some philanthropist has given money to have the road along by the property of the Homes macadamized.

Capt. R. E. Philbrook, State field agent in the work to fight all insect pests, says that he is discouraged at the prospect in store regarding brown-tail and gypsy moths, particularly the latter. "Our men have destroyed gypsy nests containing eggs that would have produced 50,000,000 caterpillars in Kittery, Elliot, York and Wells alone," he said, "and that means that we have not held our own. I am convinced that removal and destruction of nests will never stamp out the pest and that all we can do is to fight the best we can. Our State appropriation of $30,000 being insufficient and the State being unable to finance any plan that would annihilate these moths. It is my candid opinion that every town must equip with spraying machines for protection of fruit and shade trees, thereby saving these trees from insect pests. Parasites may put the brown tail moths out of business in time; we hope they will, and that is the plan we shall adopt. This is not certain in the case of gypsy moths, many times more destructive and difficult to hold in check. We are getting reports that show such a wide spread of these moths that our State appropriation will not suffice and we get all we can secure from the Legislature every year. Conditions are very bad in York county, that being the first territory invaded by the moths that come down from Massachusetts across New Hampshire close to the shore and work eastward gradually. We are approaching rapidly the problem that has been so puzzling and expensive in Massachusetts for years. Even to hold these pests in check, to say nothing of any prospect of getting them out of commission, will be very expensive and the towns that are in the worst must bear the bulk of the burden eventually. The sooner the start is made the less will be the cost to them and to other towns now free."

A jury in the Federal Court at Minneapolis, Saturday, awarded $20,000 for the loss of a leg to H. W. Otis of Wilmar, Minn., formerly an employee of the Great Northern Railway, against whom the judgment was rendered. Violation of the Federal safety appliance act was alleged. Otis was injured while coupling cars with an old-fashioned coupling pin instead of the automatic appliance, which it is claimed, is prescribed by the statute.

The funeral of John E. Wood of Snows Falls was held at the Universalist church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. D. A. Ball was the officiating clergyman. Mr. Wood had been ill for about three months. He is survived by a widow, a son, Fred Wood and granddaughter, Miss Ella Wood, both of Brookline, Mass. Mr. Wood was widely known, having lived in Massachusetts for many years, where he was extensively engaged in business, also by extended travel having been abroad thirteen times. Since living at Snows Falls he has been quite retired although many friends will mourn the loss of a genial and interesting friend and acquaintance.

Rev. and Mrs. Ball were in Lewiston, Friday evening, to hear Helen Keller. They were deeply impressed by the wonderful woman and the matchless progress which she has been able to make. Next Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Ball will speak from his impressions of Miss Keller.

The newly appointed Methodist minister, Rev. F. R. Pine, has been in town this week.

Mrs. P. E. Wheeler attended the lecture of Miss Helen Keller at Bath, Thursday evening. She was the guest of friends during her stay in the city.

The loan exhibit under the auspices of Good Will Society at Good Will Hall, Thursday afternoon and evening was of more than usual interest and instruction. Ancient china and silver, mounted birds and animals including a bear's head and a rug from the skin of the animal, ancient articles of all descriptions, modern and old-fashioned needle work, curios from different States and foreign countries all helped to swell the display which the committee had procured and tastefully arranged. The visitors during the afternoon were entertained by trombone selections by Mr. J. K. Allaire, with Mrs. Burnham accompanist. In the evening there was a good program consisting of piano duets, Miss Jildred and Miss Lane readings by Miss Murray, Mrs. A. D. Swift, Mrs. Edwin Mann; piano duet, Miss Jildred; duet, Leon Marston and Lala Day; recitations, Beatrice Davis and Myrtle Robinson, and lullaby song by chorus of little girls.

Norway High School presented the drama, "The King of the Philippines," Friday evening at Grange Hall. The parts were well taken. A dance followed.

LIONS' HEADS ON FOUNTAINS.

Most of the things that are customary with us had some good reason for their origin, though we are apt to accept them and not inquire what that origin was. The water in a great many public fountains, whether for man or beast, comes out of a lion's mouth. Did you ever stop to think why a lion's head should be chosen in preference to any other design?

This is said to be the reason: Among the ancient Egyptians the rising of the waters of the River Nile was the most important event of the year, as it meant life and prosperity to the whole nation. This rising of the waters always took place when the sun was in the constellation of Leo, or the lion. So they adopted the shape of a lion as the symbol for the life-giving waters of the Nile, and all their fountains were carved with a lion's head. The Greeks and Romans copied this symbol, and so it has come down to us. (Tit. Bits.)

At a convention of Greek letter college societies at Chicago, a resolution interesting to high school pupils was adopted. The resolution says that hereafter no national Greek letter body shall admit to membership any candidate who has been a member of a high school fraternity.

TOBACCO GROWING IN MAINE.

We are not accustomed to regard the State of Maine in the light of a tobacco-growing commonwealth, yet there are possibilities in this line, says the Kennebec Journal. E. C. Carl, of Augusta recently became interested in the subject, and had some correspondence with M. B. Smith of Hartford, Connecticut. The following extract from a letter written to Mr. Carl by Mr. Smith is of interest:

"In regard to tobacco-growing in Maine you can of course grow a few rows of tobacco in your garden as an experiment, but it is doubtful whether the average farmer could grow a crop,—harvest and cure and bundle it and sell it for enough to pay for his trouble. I have grown two crops at my farm in Belfast, and employ a Connecticut man to look after the tobacco end of the farming and shall do so again this year, as I do not consider it safe to leave it to my boss farmer. If you wish to have me, I will send you a few seeds of the variety I grow. About the first of April, you can sow them as you would cabbage or other garden seed in some sheltered spot, under glass, or get some one who has a hothouse to start them for you. Transplant to your field about the first of June. Give your land a heavy coat of lime, work it in thoroughly at the rate of two tons per acre. Also use cottonseed meal, one ton per acre, carbonate of potash at the rate of 300 pounds per acre, steamed ground bone, 500 pounds per acre. If you cannot obtain carbonate of potash, sulphate may do. Plenty of horse manure is excellent for tobacco. The average potato ready-mixed fertilizer will not do for tobacco. I sold my 1912 crop last week, for 20 cents per pound in the bundle, which averaged $400 per acre. It looked equal to the best Connecticut crop, and had been grown here, I could have easily got 25 cents per pound for it."

Mr. Carl proposes to experiment in tobacco raising in a modest way, this summer, in his garden at Buxton. He does not guarantee to his smoking friends any 1913 Christmas presents from the Buxton garden, but his vegetables will be watched with interest.

Gov. Haines' course in impeaching the recalcitrant sheriffs has the hearty approval of loyal Methodists. At the session of the Maine Methodist conference in South Paris, Wednesday, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, and with much enthusiasm:

Resolved: That we, the members of the Maine annual conference, at this the first meeting of our 95th annual session, do heartily recommend the recent action of our Governor, Hon. W. T. Haines, in bringing to account before the Legislature of our State, certain recalcitrant sheriffs for their failure to enforce the prohibitory law with the result that such sheriffs are now recommended for removal by the Governor.

Resolved: That we recognize in this action of our Chief Executive a courageous challenge to the lawless among us, and their official servitors to quit their disregard for law and order and the sanctity of an oath, or else to suffer legal consequences. The result of such challenge, we believe, will not only guarantee satisfactory enforcement of our prohibitory statute, during the entire Haines administration, and afterward, but also is a mighty, happy, moral impetus to all good men and all good work for many days to come. That such challenge will be approved and supported by every loyal Methodist in Maine, is our fixed belief.

Resolved: That we compliment the members of the recent Maine Legislature, every consideration of party or personal, voted to support the Governor in the execution of his righteous purpose to drive from our State the illegal liquor traffic.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions, signed by our president and secretary, be sent to Governor Haines and that their publication be requested. J. M. Artery,

Attacks of Indigestion

"I believe Chamberlain's Tablets have saved my life, writes Mrs. Maggie Coll, Golden City, Mo. 'I had pains in my stomach so bad I thought I could not live. My doctor said it was congestion of the stomach. I would go to bed perfectly well and wake up in the night so bad as I could not be and live. Our doctor said it would do no good to give medicine internally. He had to inject medicine in my arm. Since taking Chamberlain's Tablets I can eat anything I want without hurting me.' This form of indigestion is extremely painful and often dangerous. By taking Chamberlain's Tablets after eating, and especially when you have fullness and weight in the stomach, the danger of the disease may be ward off and avoided. Chamberlain's Tablets not only aid digestion, but strengthen and invigorate the stomach."

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

"THE DYING GIRL'S MESSAGE."

Raise the window higher, mother, air can never harm me now, Let the breeze blow in upon me, it will cool my fevered brow;
Soon death's struggle will be over, soon
he still'd this aching heart, But I have a dying message I would give before we part;
Lay my head upon your bosom, fold me
closer, mother, dear, While I breathe a name long silent, in thy fond and loving ear;
Mother, there is one—you know him—
oh! I cannot speak his name, You remember how he sought me, how with loving words he came.

How he gained my young affection, vowing in most tender tone
That he would forever guard me, were my heart but his alone;
You remember how I trusted, how my thoughts were all of him—Draw the curtain higher, mother, for the light is growing dim.
Need I tell you how he left me, coldly putting me aside,
How he wooed and won another, and now claims her as his bride?
Life has been a weary burden since those hours of deepest woe—Wipe those cold drops from my forehead, they are death marks well I know.

Gladly I obey the summons to a bright and better land,
Where no hearts are won and broken,
but all form a happy band;
Do not chide him, mother, darling,
though my form you see no more; Grieve not, think me only waiting for you on the other shore.
Do not chide him, mother, darling, though you miss me from your side.
I forgive him, and I wish him joy with his chosen bride;
Take this ring from off my finger,
where he placed it long ago, Give it to him with a blessing, that in dying I bestow.

Tell him that it is a token of forgiveness and of peace—Hark! I hear a voice, it passes; will those watching never cease?
Hark! I hear his footsteps coming—
'tis but the rustling trees;
Strange how my disordered fancy caught his footfall on the breeze.
I am told now, close the window, fold me closer—hiss me, too;
Jogged means that burst of music
'tis the Ravenna's voice, I know;
See him, waiting to receive me; oh!
How great a bliss to die—
Mother, meet your child in Heaven, one more kiss, and then—goodbye.

"EXHORT IT DIL"

In the hour of the hope that is dawning,
When a ray of light from the dawn to come Weat to the end of earth's watching hour,
In a mystery—oh! dumb,
One darkness and gloom are in and out,
And we know not the wondrous way to which from the cold and the barren comes to promise of life today.
Yet within us there dwells the secret
Of the dawn that is soon to be,
And into our hearts a gladness steals
From a beauty we cannot see.
There is light in the seed that dying can make the world new,
And bring unto summer the glory
Of bud and blossom's bliss.

Farth from a deeper shadow,
I am darkness here of old,
Tears in God's own way to open the door to the light again.
The sun, though hidden and darkness,
The father's golden light,
And out of our own things plan revealed the plan of life.

And beyond and over the new world joy
For the earth and the life of man,
A water taught that the world can be made the world again.
Part the night of the valley of shadow
it goes—
The thought with its shining rays
The rest death is the darkness where life meets life.
The thought of dawn and of day,
—Helen L. Newman, Bangor, Me.

SO FULL OF GLORY.

See to the tab, one winter's day,
The mother stood, and called away,
She washed and dried and blessed and wrote,
And about the kitchen stove she sang
The children, so close and white,
The room was small, the floor was bare,

And Tommy, in his broken voice,
Sat with his bowl of milk and bread,
While through the steam there quickly sped
A sunbeam, clear and bright.

The little powder spoon it filled,
And fearing lest it should be spilled,
With careful hand he gently bore
It to his lips, for ne'er before
Had he a drop of gold.
Then pulling at his mother's gown,
"I've swallowed it—the sunbeam—down,
And now, dear mother, don't you see,
I'm full of glory as can be?
—Were the strange words he told.

Long weeks went by, and once again
The mother stood, while tears, like rain, Fell in the tub, where clothes were piled;
For she was thinking of the child,
The child that went away.
The little powder spoon was there,
And by her side the broken chair;
But through the window and the steam
There came no more the bright sunbeam,
The sky was dull and gray.

"So full of glory," whispered she,
"In God's house I know that he Has so much more than I can give,
But it's a weary thing to live;
It's all that I can bear.
Still, many children go astray,
And Tommy might have lost his way;
But now the angel at the gate
Will keep him safe, and I must wait;
I'm sure to find him there."

HOOSIER SPRING TONIC.

"a lot" good—
The "pleasing" a "druggist", and the buds
to get tough
A lot of "reaching" up'ards all a trim
But 'ever' one,
It's a "million" brownie beats
a "shakin'" at the end!
The children want their shoes off "fore their breakfast", and the spring is here so good and plenty that the old ten has to sing!
When things is "good" then say, "o' y'
that's the sign, you know, That ever 'thin' a gain' like we like to be see her go!

Oh, ever 'thin' a gain' like we like to
be see her go!
Old winter's up and, and, with his drafted front and snow
The ice is out of the creek again, the frees is out the ground, And you'll see for a thousand, too, of you'll just look around!
The "pleasing" a "druggist", and the buds

A lot of "reaching" up'ards all a trim

The sun ain't just "pleasing" you? The ham is in the house—
The trees'll soon be green as grass, and grass as green as trees;
The birds is all "a" a-bird", and the dog won't down the road be bound to hear out "laughter" "fore any other work is done.
The bees is "wakin'", giddy like, and fanciful" for their buzz,
A "thinkin'" over wakened, of other days that was—
When all the land was orchard blossoms

Henry B. Forbes died at his home Saturday, April 13, at the age of 67 years. Mr. Forbes has been an invalid for many years, but able to be about much of the time. His last sickness lasted only a week. He was a veteran of the war, having served in the Twenty-ninth Maine Regiment. He is survived by a widow and two daughters, Mrs. C. E. Holmes and Miss Ida. The funeral was held from the home Monday, Rev. Elleanor B. Forbes, a cousin of the deceased, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in the village cemetery.

terville for a visit with friends.

Coughs and Consumption
Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Mendon, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I sincerely believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by nall, Nathan Reynolds of Canton; H.

ONE LONE BACHELOR IN THE CABINET.

Gatherers of statistics who have been compiling facts about the new Wilson cabinet announced with satisfaction the other day that its members are simple, home-loving and by example, active anti-race suicide propagandists.

Of all the cabinet families only that of Secretary of War Garrison is without children.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan is a lawyer, like her husband, but she has found time amid her professional duties to rear two children, Mrs. Richard Hargreaves, Jr., and William J.
Bryan, Jr., whose wife will make her home in Washington with the family.

Three daughters call Mrs. Albert Sidney Barless, wife of the postmaster-general, "mother." One of the daughters, Mrs. Richard VanWick Negley, has a son about six weeks old.
William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, and Mrs. Redfield, have a married daughter and a son, Hamphrey Fuller Redfield, who is a student at Amherst College.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, has a 10-year-old son, Frank Lin, Jr., and a daughter, Nancy, several years younger. Mrs. Lane is a college woman, but thoroughly domestic.

If ever an actual anti-race suicide organization is established among the families of the cabinet officers, Mrs.
William B. Wilson, wife of the new secretary of labor, will be at its head by right of achievement. She has nine children.

Mrs. Josephine Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, also has several children.

There are three children in the family of David Houston, secretary of agriculture.

Mrs. Nina Madison will preside over the Washington home of her father, William B. Madison, the new secretary of the treasury. She made her debut a short time ago. There are two other daughters, one married, and three sons.

The only bachelor in the cabinet, which is why he is mentioned last, is Attorney General McKenna.

Port Worth, Texas.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and derived great benefit from its use. It carried me safely through the Change of Life when I was in bad health. I had that all gone feeling most of the time, and headache constantly. I was very nervous and the hot flashes were very bad. I had tried other remedies and doctors, but did not improve until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do.
"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong, well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice, and I shall recommend it as long as I live. ## POLLUTION.

The principle use of water at the present day by humanity is for drinking purposes. The problem of obtaining pure drinking water is very important, especially at this season of the year as contamination of drinking water may come from various sources. The sources of water supply for drinking purposes are numerous and quite dependent upon the class of people who are using the water. Pure water is seldom found in nature. The nearest to pure water that we have naturally is rain water, but even this may be contaminated by dust and dirt in the air. The purest water in nature is really that which falls after a prolonged rain. If a sample of water is taken before it has been allowed to come in contact with the soil, we would find the water nearly sterile.

There are many different sources of drinking water such as rivers, lakes, ponds, springs, and both artesian and deep wells; these sources may be contaminated in various ways. Not even the farmer is free from contaminated drinking water. The contamination may be due to many different causes, principally due to sewage and drainage of soil water. The extent of this contamination depends largely upon the source of the water—whether it be running water, standing water, springs, wells, or rain water; the methods used in the care of the water; exposure to contamination; and the use made of it.

All of these sources may be readily contaminated by various means, which make the water unfit for use. The principle source of drinking water in many of our large cities the present day is the river water may be used of properly filtered and correct methods of storage used. However, river water is very easily contaminated by sewage and by washing the surface of the soil. Many diseases—such as typhoid, cholera, etc., may be carried by river water, especially when it has been contaminated by sewage. River water may be purified by filtration, generally through means of sand which removes the impurities in the water.

The active principles in the destruction of bacteria found in water are sedimentation, the action of other microorganisms, the right temperature, and food supply. Lakes and ponds are generally free from contamination, due to the fact that the water is quiet and allows sedimentation to take place. Where the source of water supply of towns and cities is a lake or pond (under proper precautions) the water is pure and safe for drinking.

of drinking water.

Springs are generally supposed to be one of the purest sources of water supply, but they become one of the worst. Clear spring water has often been found to be highly contaminated and dangerous for use. Especially is this true where a spring lies on the slope of a hill where it may get the wash from above. Water is not always purified, in fact is seldom purified, from flowing through the soil as it gathers a large number of organisms by its passage. Springs which are being used as a source of drinking water, should be enclosed so that small animals and children cannot get to them.

The common source of drinking water in the country is wells, and this source is one which is easily contaminated. In fact, the water obtained from country wells is seldom pure. The wells are frequently contaminated by the waste from the stable, closet, or sink-pot. Often they have a loose board covering which allows the water to run back into the well taking along with it all the filth around the top. Wells, to become a safe source of drinking water, should be situated away from buildings and on a slope which would allow the water to run away from the well, instead of toward it. The kind of soil about the well plays quite an important factor in the contamination of the water. Sandy soil allows the water to work through from neighboring streets and very easily contaminates any well which is made in this kind of soil. Clay soil, on the other hand, is very easily impervious to the passage of water.

The idea of the well should be made solid so that the water around it will not work in. The top should be made light. It is a good plan to line the well with cement or some other substance which will allow no cracks for the outside water to seep through. The waste water from the pump should be conducted by a trough away from the well.

Where there is any suspicion of the unsanitary condition of the drinking water, action should be taken immediately to find out where the trouble lies and how it can be remedied. Water may be boiled to purify it if there is any suspicion of disease germs. Many systems are spread through the water supply, and proper observation of the precautions necessary to obtain pure drinking water will do much to check the ravages.

BIRTHDAY GREETING.

In honor of Chesley H. Fernald's 80th birthday.
Dear friend we have met here together
To honor thy birthday to-night;
Though dreary and cold is the weather,
Our hearts they are warm with delight.

We meet to celebrate a man of fame
With grand and fine avocations;
Chesley Fernald is his name,
Fine and honorable his station.

Twice eighty years ago today
Since first he saw the light,
And he is just as young and gay,
And he can dance all right.

He can dance the "Rural Philistine," Waltz and Polka and swing,
Balance his partner in a line,
And step out the "Highland Fling."

All the earth is filled with gladness,
Spring is waking every well,
There's no time for gloom or sadness,
May life's joys you always hold.

We shall again renew our youth,
As the eternal years unfold;
How gladly we shall know the truth,
That we shall never there grow old.

'Tis the beautiful autumn leaves
That makes the brown earth bright;
And when the heart with sorrow
groves,
Tears make the sad heart lighter.

May there be many joyful years,
Though time is swiftly fleeing;
Thy smile is brighter for thy tears,
And earth is better for thy being.

We wish you perfect health and joy
That happiness with you abide,
And perfect peace, without alloy,
Be with you till you ever glide.

Thou hast reached thy eightieth milestone,
And thy step is sprightly still,
But God will not leave thee alone,
While climbing life's rough hill.

Again we wish you many a happy year,
'Twill be your children's fond delight
To fill your days with happy cheer,
Until we all shall say, "Good night."

A YOUNG MAN'S RECREATION CREED.

(Rev. Herbert A. Jump, Oakland, Cal.)
First—I will never patronize an entertainment that brutalizes man or shames a woman.

Second—I will always do some part of my playing in the open air.

Third—I will not be merely a lazy spectator of sport; I will take for myself its rest and thrill.

Fourth—I will avoid over-entertainment as I pray that I may be saved from overwork.

Fifth—I will choose the amusements that my wife can share.

Sixth—I will not spend Sunday in caring for my bodily pleasures so much that I forget my soul and its relation to God's kingdom.

Seventh—I will never spend on pleasure money that belongs to other aspects of my life.

Eighth—I will remember to enjoy a boy's sports again when my boy needs me as a team.

Ninth—I will recollect that play should be for the sake of my mind as well as for my body; hence I shall not allow these forms of entertainment that deal with ideas.

Tenth—I will never let play serve as the end of existence, but always I shall be busy to make me a better workman and a richer soul.

PEACE DAY.

Bath, Me., April 12, 1913.
To the Educators of Maine:
I wish to call to your attention the desirability of observing the Eighteenth of May in the schools as Peace Day. This day has been observed in the schools of the country since 1905, when Honorable George H. Martin, then Secretary of the State Board of Education in Massachusetts, sent to the superintendents of the state a recommendation for appropriate exercises to emphasize the blessings of peace, to show the superiority of arbitration over war, and to exalt the brotherhood of nations.

The Eighteenth of May is a day commemorating the opening of the Hague Peace Conference in 1899. Then peculiar opportunity is afforded for instilling into the minds of the young the great laws of brotherhood that were in the thoughts of our forefathers. The day was very widely observed throughout Maine last year, one of its most helpful features being the addresses given by clergymen to their local high and grammar schools or to those of neighboring towns. I would recommend that this plan be carried out this year, each school engaging its own speaker. In some places he may wish to deliver a peace address to the schools upon Sunday at his own church. Since the Eighteenth of May falls upon the Sabbath this year, it will be necessary for the observance to take place upon the preceding Friday or the following Monday. Permit me to urge you to set aside an hour or two in your schools upon either date to emphasize the great benefits that would accrue to the nations of the earth by an adoption of the policy, recommended by The Hague Peace Conference, of adjusting disagreements among nations without resort to war.

The Peace Day Bulletin, containing appropriate material for the observance of the Eighteenth of May, compiled by Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews and published by the Federal Bureau of Education, will be issued this year for the second time. Copies of this Bulletin can be obtained directly from Washington, D. C., or by addressing Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, Secretary of the American School Peace League, 405 Marlborough Street, Boston, Mass.

In order to make the exercises most profitable and uniform throughout the country, the American School Peace League will send free, upon request, a package of literature to every teacher dealing with the international peace movement. All requests for such literature, and information concerning the prizes offered by the League, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. Andrews.

Very sincerely yours,
ALICE MAY DOUGLAS,
Executive Secretary of the Maine Branch of the American School Peace League.

Charles Melchior and Mrs. Charles Hill are still in the hospital. Both are gaining and no doubt will be able to return to their homes in a few days.

A Traveling Man Cured
P. H. Connerman, a traveling man of Joplin, Mo., writes: "Twelve years ago I was a great sufferer from stomach trouble. I tried nearly every medicine I could hear of, among them I used fifteen bottles of one popular preparation, but never found anything that did me any permanent good until I took Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which have effected a permanent cure. It has now been five years since I took these tablets, and I have had no more stomach trouble during that time. I have recommended Chamberlain's Tablets to a great many sufferers with stomach trouble, and traveling salesmen, and have met many of the boys on the road who are afflicted with disorders of the stomach as they have to me with all kinds of half-cured grubstake of the different country boys, which is one source of this dreadful disease."

Last Spring My Health

"Was completely broken down through prolonged watching at a sick bed. My appetite was gone. I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I became pale, thin, languid, tired, looked ten years older. Through physical weakness my mental condition was affected. Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to perfect health. It aided the worn-out nerves of my stomach to do their duty. I could soon eat and sleep peacefully and felt new life course through my veins. Within six weeks I was my former self, and for a year have enjoyed the best health." Julia C. Tison, Atlantic City, N. ### LOCAL HISTORY.

the journal to 1875, it has had twelve owners, individuals and firms, and during the time eight regular political editors. It is said that a man at Bryant's Pond has a complete file of the paper from its very start. A file may be seen at the office room of the County Commissioners to the Court House building at No. 24, Portland, covering a period of several years. I notice that in 1852 what is now called South Park is alluded to as "Paris Cape." A search in these old volumes would reveal much data relating to Bethel happenings, but life is too short, and events in most cases not worth repeating to brush from them the accumulated dust of time at the present "high cost of living." A few items are at hand which I will here say:

Bethel, March 27th, 1875. "Messrs. E. & F. Curtis have bought of Wm. Hiram the house recently occupied by E. C. Berry, near the depot."

"Giffen Jones has removed his blacksmith shop to Locke's Mills."

"Rev. David Garland, after a ministry of more than twenty-five years as pastor of the Second Congregational church in Bethel, celebrated his sixtieth birthday by a reception of his friends and a substantial supper to all who availed themselves of his hospitality."

"Giffen P. Bean and wife have returned from their bridal tour and gave a reception to their friends Tuesday evening at the home of Moses T. Green, Esq. (the bride's father). The large and commodious house was brilliantly illuminated, the Bethel Cornet Band were present and discoursed sweet music, the tables were spread with delicious fruit and pastry, and tea and coffee were served to all who deigned it. More than two hundred friends and neighbors availed themselves of the privilege of extending their congratulations to their newly wedded friends."

"The thermometer has reached 20 degrees below zero the past week."

"The sporting crew at Locke's Mills had their last 'cage' destroyed by T. R. Randall's Black Hawk."

"(Gages) Many people could remain in Bethel and vicinity who remember the Rev. Mr. Garland from personal observation. When he has departed, his memory has gone after great admiration; his residence remains which is now owned and occupied a short time by the summer by Mrs. Smith, Esq., who is employed by the U. S. Government and spends most of the year at Washington, D. C. The subscription is now; the 'history of the fair maid' of a half century ago, newly portrayed in verse, but which in cases, have faded and strange with the clouds of the midwinter twilight, 'over the sea' at the end of the covered bridge."

located near Bethel Hill. One familiar with the history of the past can dwell long in reverie at the site of Parson Garland's church edifice and his last worldly abiding place.

Giffen P. Bean's demise is of recent date—a notice of it appearing in the Citizen Nov. 16, 1911, who, for a period of twenty-nine years, kept a shop at the north easterly corner of Main and Church streets on Bethel Hill. His residence was the second house south of the Academy, same side of Church street, though it was the third before the removal of the one that stood some years ago next to the Academy building upon its southerly side, now standing upon the northerly side of Main street and used partly as a millinery establishment.

In this same issue of the Democrat with the above appear a few more items which I will here present, signed "C."

"Mrs. Nancy Blake, one of the old inhabitants of this town, died at the residence of her son, Giffen L. Blake, Esq., last Wednesday morning. Mrs. Blake was born in 1761, and has been for many years a devoted and highly esteemed member of the Baptist church. The funeral was attended at the house at one o'clock on Saturday."

"The M. E. Quarterly Meeting will be held at the M. E. church on Saturday and Sunday, April 24 and 25. Elder Martin will preside."

"John M. Milbrook lost a valuable horse Friday night. He slipped his halter in the stable, and broke a leg by kicking against a post."

"J. C. Billings is erecting a carriage shop in connection with his blacksmith shop."

Mrs. Blake was 52 years of age and resided with Giffen L. Blake, her son, upon the road to Walker's Mills, which Blake place has been recently notified in the Citizen.

Mrs. Jarvis C. Billings, the "village blacksmith," and present postmaster, kept track for himself. The above item gives the public the date of the erection of the carriage shop near the Soldier's Monument if no more.

In the Maine Farmer, printed at Augusta, appeared, January 10, 1881, an item that read as follows:

"The Oxford Democrat this week celebrates its entrance on the second half of a century by a liberal entertainment, and the addition of several participants. It will continue to edit the local news, and no paper in the State is doing better in that direction. In connection with the enlargement, the Wm. H. Lapham of Augusta, contributes an interesting and elaborate history of the Democrat with sketches of its editors and publishers, from the beginning of its existence to the present time."

The excellent Giffen P. Bean red dress, as now observed, and one of the last in appearance, was constructed by Capt. Isaac Littlehale, a house painter, who came in from Newry, and took for a wife Miss Mary (Russell) Ballard, a grand niece of Mrs. Mary (Russell) Grant, wife of Capt. Daniel Grant, to whom several references have been made in the Citizen. Mrs. Littlehale bore her husband eight children—Mrs. Grant. She died in Andover, Me. Capt. Littlehale removed his family to Gorham, N. H., from which place he went to California, and departing from this life upon the homeward passage was buried in the ocean.

To be continued.

Miss Maude Kittredge, of Augusta, aged 17, proved herself a heroine this week, by diving into the water at Quarry pond and saving her six-year-old sister, Kathleen, from drowning. The little girl, with some small playmates, was running about the pond, which is located at the head of Grand street, near the Kittredge house. Sharp granite ledges surround the pond and it was while leaning over the edge of one of these that Kathleen lost her balance and fell into the pond. Her playmates tried to help her but finding themselves unequal to the task, ran to the Kittredge house for assistance. Maude ran to the pond by the nearest route, which brought her to the top of the granite ledge, 50 feet above the water. The girl saw her little sister in the water and without a moment's hesitation dove into the pond, grasped the child in her arms, and, after a hard struggle, brought her to the shore, where it was necessary to work over her for some time before she was resuscitated. The older sister was greatly disappointed by her clothes in the struggle and the water was extremely cold, the ice having left the pond but a day or two before. Last summer Miss Kittredge rescued a young lad, David Smith, in a similar manner. She is an expert swimmer and can perform many water stunts with facility. She and Paul Brennan are the only persons who have dared to dive into the pond from the top of the granite ledge. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kittredge of 54 Granite street, and once recently returned from Boston where she has been employed of late.

THE END.

A group of fellows waiting for their coffee to boil in a tomato can were telling of their hard luck experience. "I've had worse luck than any body," said one of them, challengingly, after listening to the others' tales of woe. "Once I had to sleep from Wilkes-Barre to Park Ambre on top of a flat car loaded with hard coal."

"And what do you think?" he went on. "Every car on the next train that pulled in from the same direction was loaded with soft!"

HIGHWAY LAWS.

"Still another act gives garage keepers a special lien on cars for supplies, work and material furnished."

"An act which is of some importance to people living in cities and the thickly settled portions of towns provides that when a majority of the abutters in number and value, upon any street, shall petition the municipal officers to improve such street, two-thirds of the cost may be assessed on all of the abutting property whether they petition or not."

"An act of great importance is the one that provides that all road commissioners shall be chosen by the selectmen and not elected by the people. Selectmen may appoint from one to three road commissioners and they may employ a road commissioner for a term of three years. In this act selectmen are not debarred from being commissioners."

"The Legislature, however, passed another act which apparently is antagonistic to this one, but as the act authorizing the selectmen to appoint road commissioners was the last act enacted and approved by the Governor, it undoubtedly will stand, as a general practice of the court has been that where two acts that were antagonistic were passed, the one last approved shall be the one to be considered the law."

"The Legislature authorized a commission of three to confer with New Jersey, New York and other eastern states, in regard to a unification of all laws relating to the use of automobiles on the highways and report to the next Legislature, the idea being to have uniform laws in all of the eastern states."

Speaking of rural delivery road appropriation offered by the National government and accepted by Maine at the recent session of the Legislature, Mr. Seaton said:

"The Legislature appropriated $20,000 to obtain $10,000 offered by the National Government for the improvement of 50 miles of rural delivery roads used by the rural delivery. It also designated that this money should be expended upon the main road beginning at the Westbrook and Portland line at Riverport and running to Fryeburg over the highway extending through the city of Westbrook and the towns of Windham, Raymond, Naples, Casco, Bridgton and Fryeburg. This $20,000 with the regular town and State aid money, ought to place this road in fair condition. The State Highway Commissioner has taken the matter up with the National Government and nothing can be fully determined until he hears from Washington."

"The opening up of every street in Bar Harbor to automobiles was one of the pieces of legislation which attracted much attention in the Legislature. In addition to this opening up of the town of Eden, which means the whole of Mt. Desert Island, several other restricted roads in various parts of the State were placed on the open list. A road in Readfield, which has been closed to automobiles was opened up and the road in Waterford which has caused so much trouble the past year, will, on July 1, be open to automobile traffic."

"It must be borne in mind that, owing to the referendum, all of these laws except that pertaining to Bar Harbor, will not become operative until July 1, so that the Highway Commission cannot be organized until that time. It is therefore apparent that not much work can be done on State roads this year unless some tacit agreement is made with the present Highway Commission and the Governor and Council. It is to be devoutly hoped that some arrangement may be made, especially in regard to the construction of the Portland Kittery line and some other sections in this State."

"And now to come to the principal law of all, the one providing for a Highway Commission of three members and the ratification of the highway bonds. This act, to my mind, is not as perfect as it should have been, owing to the personal ambition of some people and the personal biases of others together with considerable politics. Thus it was impossible to enact a perfect general highway law. Nevertheless the one adopted by the State Legislature has very many redeeming features. It gives the State Highway Commission almost unlimited power. This is right. One of the first duties of the Highway Commission is to select a chief engineer who shall be the operating head. The Commission is not limited to a resident of this State or to the price it shall pay such engineer. Another one of its important duties, and it will be among its first, is to lay out a system of State roads throughout the State. These roads must be intelligible and the systems running east and west must be connected at different points with others running north and south. This will be one of the most difficult problems for the Commission to deal with, but its members have absolute power to lay out such a system unhampered by anyone. These men of to-day have just such symptoms as you describe. What does it mean? Look at me. I am eighty-two years old. Sound as a nut. Tough as hickory. Do not know what it is to be tired. While I cannot do as much physical work as I used to when a young man, I can do a great deal. Probably twice as much as the average young man of to-day. What has kept me so strong and well? I will tell you. I do not use tobacco. I do not use alcoholic stimulants. I do not use tea or coffee habitually. I go to bed early. I get up early. I am always doing something; something that occupies my body and mind. I love to work. I take a cold water towel bath every morning, winter and summer. It is these things that have kept me well and strong. You could be just as well and strong as I am if you would do me I do. You may ask, do I never get sick. I have never had occasion to take medicine at all. Yes, I have got sick. Sometimes I feel a little touch of catarrhal trouble, like cold, malaria, slight catarrhal symptoms, but my only medicine is Peruna. I always keep a bottle of Peruna in the house. I keep a bottle of Peruna on my desk in my office. Once in a while I take some. I do not take it habitually. Take it only when I feel a little out of sorts. One swallow will perhaps be all that will be necessary, but it is always handy by. It is a sorry sight to see the young men of to-day begin to peter out physically when they ought to be in the story of their manhood and the height of their vigor. Eat plain food. Live frugally. Give up all weakening habits. Live as God intended you to live. Take Peruna when you do not feel as well as usual.

If you want me to I will send you a book which will tell you a great many more things about yourself and about matters that may be of great value to you. Enclose a two-cent stamp for postage and the book will be sent in a plain wrapper and you will not be troubled with any follow-up letters or advertisements. PERUNA IS FOR SALE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for a booklet which this formula is now put out under the name of "The Perfect Man." It is manufactured by KAT-TAN Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

State roads, or such part of them as $2,000,000 will construct, are to be built wholly at the expense of the State. The municipalities, however, are obliged to pay to the State $60 per mile annually for their upkeep. The construction and maintenance of State roads is to be wholly within the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department. None of the bond money can be used in the thickly settled portions of towns of 2,500 population or more. The State Highway Commission, however, is to lay out State roads through the cities and towns and the municipalities are to construct and maintain them, and if they are not maintained to the satisfaction of the State Highway Commission, they can make the necessary repairs and charge the expense against the municipality.

"One good section is that when the Highway Commission commences in any county to build a State road, it must be a continuous section of at least seven miles, provided there is a distance that can be constructed in the county before it reaches the county line, or a piece of improved road. All State roads, after construction, must be maintained under the patrol system."

"Another class of roads known as State aid roads or roads of local importance, are to be laid out by the municipal officers of the several cities and towns with the approval of the Highway Department. These State aid roads shall receive assistance from the State in exactly the same proportion as provided by the old law, but their maintenance, after once constructed, is to be under the direction of the State Highway Commission, and the different towns are to be assessed by the State $30 per mile annually for their maintenance. The balance if any is necessary to be provided by the town."

"The opening up of every street in Bar Harbor to automobiles was one of the pieces of legislation which attracted much attention in the Legislature. In addition to this opening up of the town of Eden, which means the whole of Mt. Desert Island, several other restricted roads in various parts of the State were placed on the open list. "The Maine Automobile Association and its officers and members are responsible for nearly all of the highway legislation enacted this winter, as well as for the improvement that has taken place during the past year."

HISTORICAL.

Cleanings Here, There and Everywhere,

But Mostly In Oxford County

BY LEONARD B. CHAPMAN.

THE OXFORD COUNTY DEMOCRAT

IN TWO PARTS—PART SECOND

At Portland, Dec. 27th, 1881, John J. Perry addressed a communion to the Democrat, which, under head of

"OXFORD BEARS" IN PORTLAND the Portland Daily Argus upon the day of Jan. next following, printed follows:

"I have lived long enough to see one problem, to-wit:—that travel which you will, you will find the noble and daughters of 'Old Oxford.' They are a race of which any count or place may well be proud. The boys and girls who first breathe the pure and bracing air of the old Oxford hills and drink from her pulsing springs who are taught their first lessons ethics around the firesides of an home ancestry; who, with a manly independence, fight their way to distinction and fame, are sure to honor themselves and their adopted county."

"Portland has a good sprinkling of Oxford county boys; and she has ways been more or less indebted to these hardy sons for her past and present prosperity."

"Among her leading merchants are Samuel E. Spring, a native of Brownfield; Charles E. Allen of the firm Allen & Co.; Joseph A. King, firm King & Dexter; Charles J. Chapman and E. A. Norton, firm of Norton Chapman & Co.; Thomas E. Twitcheall, Chapman & Co., Twitcheall & Chapman from Bethel; Robert Douglas, firm of Hayes & Douglas; Charles J. Walker, firm of C. J. Walker & Co.; Joseph A. Kendall, firm of Chadbourn & Kendall; and Ephraim M. Steadman of the firm of E. M. Steadman & Co."

"Among the apothecaries are Arthur S. Hinds and John H. Whitney and among the brokers, the Shortle Bros."

"As we look around among the professional men we find the Oxford county boys equally prominent. The late William Warren Greene, a native of Waterford; and the late Samuel H. Tolksbury, a native of Oxford, at the time of their decease confessedly stood at the head of the school of medicine and surgery in New England."

"Dr. Seth C. Gordon and Augustus S. Thayer, both natives of Oxford county, hold a rank in their profession second to none who are now in practice in this city."

"Among the lawyers are Israel Washburn, Elbridge Gerry, Geo. F. Emery, George Walker, John J. Perry, Sullivan C. Andrews, Warren H. Vinton, Geo. F. Holmes, Clarence Hale and Judges Wm. Wirt Virgin and Enoch Knight."

"Col. John M. Adams, who owns and conducts the Eastern Argus, is an Oxford county boy, and a first-rate fellow, only his politics are a little shaky. Edward S. Osgood, the wide-awake local of the Argus, is also an Oxford boy. And I might go on and add largely to the foregoing list, for the 'Oxford Bears' and their noble descendants are found in every department of business in Portland."

"And aside from Portland, wherever you find the Oxford county boys, you find men of mark, both in the political and business world, men of brains, character and influence. They are a noble race; worthy sons of noble sires. 'Oxford county is the Switzerland of Maine.' Wander wherever they will, the 'Bears' never forget their native hills, whose summits they have scaled; the green fields over which they have ranged; the ponds and rivers where they have paddled their canoes; the school houses from which they have graduated men and women; and the 'little church around the corner,' where the cardinal principles of the Gospel have been faithfully dispensed to sincere and honest worshippers."

"I should add, that a proposition has been made by the sons of Oxford, resident in Portland, to celebrate the creation of Oxford county, in March next."
